V4@Theatre Critics Residency 2017 is a creative hub for young theatre critics who will, under the leadership of internationally acclaimed theatre theorist and critic Patrice Pavis (France) and Thomas Irmer (Germany), attend the 26th edition of the Divadelná Nitra Festival.

Participants will follow all performances of the main programme and selected performances of the accompanying programme. For 7 days, they will work together with Mr Pavis and Mr Irmer as their mentors, mediators and facilitators.

The participants will be tasked to prepare and make a presentation about the current situation in the performing arts scene in their country (topics will be announced in advance by Mr Pavis, Mr Irmer and the Divadelná Nitra), to write at least three articles which can take the form of reviews / articles about the Divadelná Nitra performances and programme or interviews with artists presented and published during the festival at the V4@Theatre website and Divadelná Nitra Facebook.

They will attend and participate in public talks with selected artists and each day they will work with Mr Pavis and Mr Irmer, discussing and reflecting on the productions they have seen. Some of the presentations and discussions of the V4@Theatre participants will be open to public – theatre professionals and students attending the festival.

This year's Divadelná Nitra is featuring the theme: FUNDAMENTALS = principle / principles, essence, a basic principle. It will present a process of searching for values – human, spiritual, intellectual, social as well as historical, through works of art presented at the festival, but also discussions, accompanying events and social activities.

The preliminary programme of Divadelná Nitra 2017 will be published at the beginning of July on www.nitrafest.sk The final programme will be ready at the end of July.

What to expect during the V4@Theatre Critis Residency?

Residency mentor Patrice Pavis, Thomas Irmer: We will take the different performances as a point of departure for our discussion and analysis. The main questions will be:

- How to approach such a specific performance and what kind of performance analysis is possible?
- What knowledge do we need to receive a performance and react to it?
- What tools are available to analyze, or simply discuss, a performance?
- What is the difference between a performance and a mise en scène?
- What is your own practice of criticism and theory?

What is expected and required from the participants:

- The ability, but also readiness, to discuss a performance, beyond the subjective point of view.
- The possibility to write reviews/articles for the festival purposes; to compare different types of discourses.
- The ability to study and use a theoretical notion, chosen in cooperation with the mentor, a notion which can possibly be discussed within the group.
- The willingness to co-chair, with the residency mentor, one of the public talks.
- The possibility to reflect on your own theatrical context at home (both for plays and performances).
- Evaluation of the theoretical and cultural discourse at home and in other countries.
- Description of the role of a dramaturge in your context in your country and in other countries?
- The evaluation of the status of the author in theatre in your country and of the relationship author–dramaturge–director–performer.
- The connection, in your country, between theatre practice and theory. How does this resonate in your own practice and what impact does it have on your reflection on theatre?
